###Select one of the below and add needed information

1. I did this homework by myself, with help from the book and the professor.

#Instructions: JSON (JavaScript Object Notation) provides a transparent, user friendly data exchange format that many organizations use to make their data available over the web. JSON is human readable, but is also highly structured, and its support for nested data structures makes it highly flexible. Today we will use JSON to obtain data from the NYC CitiBike project. The CitiBike project provides an application programming interface (API) that members of the public can access to get up-todate information on the status of more than 800 bike stations.

#You may need to install the RCurl and jsonlite packages to get the code to work.

#install.packages('jsonlite')
library(jsonlite)
#install.packages('RCurl')
library(RCurl)
station_link <- 'https://gbfs.citibikenyc.com/gbfs/en/station_status.json'
apiOutput <- getURL(station_link)
apiData <- fromJSON(apiOutput)
stationStatus <- apiData$data$stations
cols <- c('num_bikes_disabled','num_docks_disabled', 'station_id',
 'num_ebikes_available', 'num_bikes_available', 'num_docks_available')
stationStatus = stationStatus[,cols]

#1. Explain what you see if you type in the station_link URL into a browser (in a comment, write what you see)

#The data is not differentiable, its basically a dictionary of key value pairs

#2. Provide a comment explaining each line of code.

#install.packages('jsonlite') #This installs the package 'jsonlite'.
library(jsonlite) #We are calling the package 'jsonlite'.
#install.packages('RCurl') #This installs the package 'RCurl'.
library(RCurl) #We are calling the package 'RCurl'.
station_link <- 'https://gbfs.citibikenyc.com/gbfs/en/station_status.json' #We are saving the link that apiOutput <- getURL(station_link) #We are getting the api object using getURL() apiData <- fromJSON(apiOutput) #We are grabbing the values of data from apiOutput using JSON stationStatus <- apiData$data$stations #We are storing all the tuples of stations stored as key value '
cols <- c('num_bikes_disabled','num_docks_disabled', 'station_id',
 'num_ebikes_available', 'num_bikes_available', 'num_docks_available')
#We are only choosing selected columns from the json folder
stationStatus = stationStatus[,cols] #We are updating the stationStatus dataframe accordingly

#3. Use str() to find out the structure of apiOutput and apiData. Report (via a comment) what you found and explain the difference between these two objects.

print('API Output')

```

print('API Output')

#13. Use the plot() command to produce an X-Y scatter plot with the number of occupied docks on the X-axis and the number of available bikes on the Y-axis. Explain the results plot.

plot(new_DF$num_docks_disabled, new_DF$num_bikes_available, main='Scatter Plot Distribution',
    xlab='Number of occupied docks', ylab='Number of available bikes')

Scatter Plot Distribution

#It can be observed that there are a greater number of available bikes for zero occupied docks
